William Grayson to John Lamb, Richmond, 9 June 1788

I received your letter by Colo. Oswald, and the same evening laid it before the Commee. of Opposition: they have directed the Chairman to answer it by Colo. Oswald:—some of our proposed amendments are finished in the Commee.; the others will be forwarded as soon as agreed on:

I am sorry to observe to you that our affairs in the Convention are suspended by a hair: I really cannot tell you on which side the scale will turn: the difference I am satisfied on the main question will be exceedingly small indeed:—

The Governor has declared in favor of the Constitution without amendments before adoption: this however has not injured us:—neither has the news of the ratification of South Carolina: the opposition upon the whole is firm & united; there are seven or eight dubious characters, whose opinions are not known & on whose decisions the fate of this important question will ultimately depend: should all of them be on the other side it will make a majority of four or five agt. us.

You will be pleased to consider this in the light of a private letter; at all events so far, as to prevent my being quoted in the public newspaper.—I will do myself the pleasure of giving you the earliest notice of the final decision of this Assembly; should we be strong enough to command the question, I think it will be highly expedient for the Convention to open a correspondence with yours: this however is my sentiments. not knowing how others will think on the occasion.

Original source: Commentaries on the Constitution, Volume XVIII: Commentaries on the Constitution, No. 6