

CENTER FOR THE STUDY OF THE AMERICAN CONSTITUTION

csac.history.wisc.edu > Document Collections > The Constitutional Convention > Assessments of the Constitutional Convention > The Non-Signers of the Constitution

Pennsylvania Gazette, 17 October 1787

We hear from Virginia, that GEORGE MASON has been treated with every possible mark of contempt and neglect, for neglecting to sign the Fœderal Constitution, and that PATRICK HENRY, Esq; is using his influence in the state, in promoting its adoption.

CITE AS: John P. Kaminski et al., eds., The Documentary History of the Ratification of the Constitution, Vol. XIII: Commentaries on the Constitution, Public and Private [1] (Madison, Wis.: Wisconsin Historical Society Press, 1981), 404.